REPORT

V. V. Institute of Pharmaceutical Sciences organized a program on "Communication Skills" for II B. Pharm Students on 27-03-2023 by Dr. Sk. Arifa Begum, Associate Professor, K.V.S.R. Siddhartha College of Pharmaceutical Sciences.

Workplace communication plays an important role in sharing of ideas and information inside an organisation. On the other hand, precise transmission and reception of a message results in effective communication. Success and pleasure in all facets of life either personal and professional, depends on efficient communication.

Because it increases employee morale, engagement, productivity and satisfaction, communication in the workplace is crucial. Improved team cooperation and collaboration also depend on effective communication. This type of programs improved relationships between management and staff as well as within the workforce are two advantages of good communication as it fosters employee engagement. It is simpler to persuade employees to use their skills and abilities towards a common objective when management takes into account their needs and motivations and communicates to them effectively.

All the participants felt happy and learned how to communicate effectively in their professional and personal life by this program. We got very good feedback from students and requested to conduct such type of programs in future.

The Management & Dr. A. Lakshmana Rao Principal of V. V. Institute of pharmaceutical sciences expressed gratitude for sharing her expertise with students.

REPORT

V. V. Institute of Pharmaceutical Sciences organized a program on "Communication Skills" by Ms. G.N.A. Lakshmi, Associate Professor, Venkateswara College of Pharmacy, Chittoor, for II B. Pharmacy Students on 05-01-2022. The main goal of this program is to enhance student's knowledge on English Verbal Communication and Non-verbal Communication.

Verbal Communication involves using words and sentences to convey the desired information. Verbal or oral communication encompasses speech and verbal interactions like speaking and listening to messages being conveyed by another individual verbally.

Nonverbal communication means conveying a message from one individual to another via gestures, body language, or facial expressions. Gestures include facial expressions, hand signals, and finger sign language. Body language includes posture, staring, eye contact, head gestures. Facial expressions include smiling or frowning and self-explanatory parts with good communication skills are major ideas of this session.

Overall the session was completed successfully principal Dr. A. Lakshmana Rao Garu shared his opinions about the program and expressed his gratitude towards the resource person for accepting our invitation and for sharing such a valuable information to students.

REPORT

V. V. Institute of Pharmaceutical Sciences organized a program "TEACHING METHODS AND CURRICULUM PLANNING" on 25-03-2021 by Ms. A. Sai Datri, assistant Professor, V. V. Institute of Pharmaceutical Sciences, Gudlalleru. She explains how to plan curriculum very clearly. Before creating a curriculum plan, teachers decide what information is most crucial for pupils to learn. The educator takes into account both immediate and long-term objectives. The instructor then selects the most effective way to present the material. A plan for evaluating the lessons the students have learnt must also be included by the teacher.

A key component of good teaching that lays the foundation for students' academic careers is curriculum preparation. It entails planning, creating, and executing educational programmes with a great deal of teacher input on the goals, subject matter, and techniques for evaluation.

REPORT

V. V. Institute of Pharmaceutical Sciences organized a program on "Communication Skills" for II B. Pharmacy students by Mr. K. Sarat Babu, English Lecturer, A.A.N.M & V.V.R.S.R. Polytechnic, Gudlavalleru, on 23-12-2019. The main goal of this program is to enhance student's knowledge on Oral communication skills mean that you can speak clearly, concisely, and without misinterpretation. That's essential even if your job isn't centered around speaking. Having oral communication skills is a must if you want to establish rapport with your customers and provide a good service. Written communication is just as important.

Active listening requires paying close attention to the speaker by engaging with them to ensure you're getting the essence of the conversation. It additionally involves removing all other distractions and asking clarifying questions, thus making them feel heard and self-explanatory parts with good communication skills are major ideas of this session. Students from II B. Pharmacy participated and the feedback form was collected, the students found it informative and enhanced them to develop their communication skills.

The program is very interactive and the students were actively participated and got very good response.

The Management & Dr. A. Lakshmana Rao Principal of V. V. Institute of pharmaceutical sciences expressed gratitude for sharing her expertise with students.

REPORT

V. V. Institute of Pharmaceutical Sciences organized a program on "Communication Skills" for II B. Pharm Students on 20-11-2018 by Dr. M. Vijaya Lakshmi, Associate Professor, Dept of English, Gudlavalleru Engineering College, the main goal of this program is to enhance student's knowledge on Fear can prevent you from growing and progressing. If you are afraid of public speaking, take a class or join a group that helps people become better public speakers. If you are afraid of taking risks, find a mentor who can help you make good decisions and build your confidence.

Reading can expand knowledge and vocabulary and keep you informed. It can also stimulate your mind and can improve your critical thinking skills. Try reading at least one educational or motivational article a day or a book a month. Whether you do it yourself or sign up for a class, learn a new skill or topic. You might, for instance, take courses to learn another language, a new software program or how to write creatively. Consider watching a webinar on professional development topics such as entrepreneurship or social media marketing.

By interacting with many people, you can learn new ideas and understand how to communicate and work with different personality types. You can also meet people and develop relationships that might help you in the future and self-explanatory parts with good communication skills are major ideas of this session about students from II B. Pharm participated and the feedback form was collected, the students found it informative and used for improving their communication skills.
